Promoting Well-being and Independence in Older People’s Care

Maximum Participants: 16  Duration: One Day  Timings: 09:30 – 16:30

Suitable for

All health and social care professionals who manage older people’s care who wish to understand the policy framework and practical implications of promoting well-being and independence within their service.

- Day care staff
- Domiciliary care staff
- Health care assistants
- Nursing staff
- Residential care staff
- Team Leaders and Managers

Aim

To consider the concepts of well-being, choice and independence and how to promote these within older people’s services. You will consider the policy and legislative context.

Learning Outcomes

By the end of the course, you will be able to:

- Be aware of policy and legislative context to providing services that promote well-being, choice and independence
- Define restraint and list the implications to using restraint
- Explain principles such as well-being and ill-being, choice and independence and how these can be promoted through older people’s services
- Use a range of creative options as an alternative to restraint
- Identify how services can unintentionally create barriers to independence and how these can be overcome
- Develop an action plan for promoting these concepts in their service setting
- A Personal Action Plan to take your learning further

You will also leave the course with:

- A sense of achievement
- A toolkit of techniques and practical ideas for releasing your potential

Training Style

All courses are interactive, using diverse participatory, ‘brain-friendly’ training methods including: exercises; games/quizzes; handouts and workbook; small/large group discussion; skills practice and trainer input.

All courses are accompanied by a Welcome Pack (including some essential pre-course activities to prepare for learning) and a ‘Bonus Pack’ after the training with additional tools, and follow-up activities to support transfer of learning to the workplace. (*email required)
